

NEW No New Reviews Of North Spur: Ball

July 5, 2019 | 10:23 am

Last Updated: July 5, 2019 | 10:35 am

(Image from the Bernander/Elfgren report)

Premier Dwight Ball has indicated he will not be calling an independent review of the stability of the North Spur.

The premier was responding to questions from lawyer Geoff Budden, representing the Muskrat Falls Citizen's Coalition at the Inquiry yesterday.

The coalition has long called for an independent review on the stability of the North Spur, citing analysis by Swedish scientists on the quick clay in the region.

Premier Ball indicated that the area on which the dam is anchored has been extensively studied and examined by reputable engineering companies.